

Kosygin Blasts U.S. Operations in U.S. Halts Heavy Air Attacks Cambodia and Calls for Red Unity

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Alexei N. Kosygin accused President Nixon today of betraying "the American people and the world" by sending troops into Cambodia. He said the President "should have weighed the consequences" to American Soviet relations before authorizing such a move.

The Soviet government chief, at a news conference, told a questioner that the Soviet Union will re-examine its military aid commitments to North Vietnam in the light of the latest events and "will inform North Vietnam of our decision."

The Soviet leader suggested indirectly that the Cambodian events and the new U.S. bombing of North Vietnam could have a bad effect on the Vietnam peace talks in Paris and that it would make a Geneva conference on Indochina less likely.

"It goes without saying that the Soviet government will draw appropriate conclusions for its policy from such a line of action by the United States in Southeast Asia," Kosygin said.

He accused President Nixon of the "crudest arbitrariness" in his Vietnam policy. He said this contradicted the President's avowed beliefs before and after the presidential election.

"To the heavy responsibility borne by the United States for the war against the Vietnamese people is added a responsibility for the aggression it committed against the people of Cambodia," Kosygin's formal statement said.

"It goes without saying that the Soviet government will draw appropriate conclusions for its policy from such a line of action by the United States in Southeast Asia."

Kosygin appeared to attempt to rally the Communist world against the American campaign in Southeast Asia when he said that "all states which hold dear the interests of peace and freedom ... must display a high sense of responsibility for the further course of events and a determination to contribute toward repelling the aggressor."

The Soviet government chief indicated that it would be impossible to have a Geneva conference on the Indochina situation in circumstances such as now exist. The Soviet Union and Britain are cochairmen of the Geneva conferences of 1964 and 1962 and would have to agree if a new one were to be called.

"Is it possible to talk seriously of the desire of the U.S. President to have fruitful negotiations to solve ripe international problems at a time when the United States is grossly trampling underfoot the Geneva agreements of 1964 and 1962, to which it is a party, and takes ever new actions undermining the mainstays of international security?"

"What is the worth of international agreements in which the United States is taking part or is going to take part, if it violates so unceremoniously the commitments it has assumed?"

Rodeo to Be Held on Aug. 6-9

Gene R. Yokley, publicity director for the eighteenth annual Sikeston Jaycee Bootheel Rodeo, today announced the event will be held Aug. 6-9 at the Jaycee rodeo grounds.

The rodeo has been an annual event in Sikeston since 1952.

Annually more than 100 cowboys from all over the United States compete for $5,500, in cash prizes.

The rodeo features a nationally known television star during each performance.

This rodeo has developed into the largest single event between St. Louis and Memphis and each year more than 40,000, from more than 10 states attend.

Elmer Russell Seeks County Court Position

Elmer Russell today formally announced his candidacy for associate Judge of the Scott County Court from the 1st District. This District includes Sikeston, Crowder, Salcedo, Tanner, Miner and Diehlstadt.

Russell, a 41 year old native of Sikeston, residents at 423 Edmundson with his wife, Connie and two children. He is employed as a sales representative of Schulze and Burch Biscuit Company.

In formally announcing his candidacy Russell stated that he felt his 21 years experience in dealing with the public as a salesman has given him a deep insight into the many and varied problems confronting the residents of this district.

He has served as Vice-President of the DAEOC Board dealing with poverty problems. He is now on the DAEOC Advisory Board for a six county area which includes Scott County.

He is also a member of the Emergency Food Board for the same six county area. He is a member of the Emanuel Baptist Church on S. Kingshighway, BTS Superintendent, Sikeston Masonic Lodge No. 310 and Lee Hunter School PTA.

Russell states that he feels there are many inequities in property value assessments. He pledged his all out effort to eliminate these as well as to devote his energies toward conducting the affairs of the county in a fair, impartial and businesslike manner.

Infant Death Cause Undetermined

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. (AP) — Coroner Donald Kremer of Cape Girardeau County said today he has not determined the cause of the death of an infant found Saturday on an unused parking area at a mobile home park just west of Cape Girardeau.

Dr. Kremer said the child was newborn to weeks of age.

A resident of the Parkwood Lakes Estates trailer park, Rose Bueltmann, found the tiny body late Saturday.

Kosygin's statement contained a suggestion that the Cambodian events and the new bombing of North Vietnam by U.S. planes might have a serious effect on the Vietnam peace talks in Paris.

"By launching the war in Cambodia and resuming large scale barbarous bombings of populated localities in North Vietnam," President Nixon actually nullifies the decision of his predecessor, President Johnson, on the termination of November 1968, of all air bombings and other actions involving the use of force against North Vietnam."

It was the termination of the bombing which led to the expansion of the peace talks to include the Viet Cong and South Vietnam. North Vietnam and the United States had been talking fruitlessly in Paris since May 1968.

Kosygin rejected President Nixon's contention that the American actions were necessary to save U.S. lives.

Search for Missing Passengers

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — The U.S. Coast Guard kept up its search today for 21 passengers and one crew member missing from a jetliner that ditched in the Caribbean Saturday during a driving rainstorm.

There were 40 known survivors and one known dead. Most of the passengers were vacationers from the New York area.

There was speculation that the 21 missing had gone to the bottom with the plane's fuselage. But a Coast Guard spokesman said: "We're not giving up on the missing."

The DC9, leased by the Dutch Antillean Airline from Overseas National Airways, was bound from New York to St. Martin, in the Leeward Islands 200 miles west of San Juan.

The plane circled St. Martin four times but was not able to land because of poor visibility, said Roger Schmidt, 52, a passenger from New York City.

Capt. Halsey DeWitt of Hopewell Junction, N.Y., one of the four crew members who survived, then headed for St. Croix, in the Virgin Islands, but ran out of fuel before he could reach it. He radioed that he was ditching.

Church Tax Exemption Upheld

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court upheld today 7-1 the tax exemption of property used exclusively for religious purposes.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger said tax exemption is not the kind of sponsorship of religion prohibited by the First Amendment to the Constitution.

He said in American society there cannot be complete absence of all contact between church and state.

The important thing, the chief justice wrote, is that there be no real connection between tax exemption and establishment of religion. He said a New York lawyer, Frederick Walz, whose appeal attacked the exemption in his state, failed to establish any real connection.

Justice William O. Douglas dissented alone. He said the present involvement of government in religion may seem minimal. But, he said, he fears it is a long step down the path to government establishment of religion.

Burger wrote: "The grant of a tax exemption is not sponsorship since the government does not transfer part of its revenue to churches but simply abstains from demanding that the church support the state."

The chief justice noted that all 50 states provide for tax exemption of places of worship and that the federal government similarly has exempted church property from income taxes.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon announced today an end to a series of heavy U.S. air attacks against North Vietnamese missile and antiaircraft installations but said such raids may be resumed if necessary.

Daniel Z. Henkin, calling the attacks "reinforced protective reaction strikes," said the missions were successful in knocking out a number of antiaircraft facilities that had endangered unarmed U.S. reconnaissance planes.

Henkin is assistant secretary of defense for public affairs. His words supported the Nixon administration's contention that the air raids against North Vietnam, like the attack by U.S. ground forces into Cambodia, are not an escalation of the Southeast Asia war.

Bruce Reports

On Status of

Police Department

Police Chief Arthur Bruce spoke to the Optimist club today at the Rustic Rock Inn on "Respect For Law," one of the prime themes of Optimist International for youth.

"You asked whether we have any narcotic problems among our youth," Bruce said, "I can tell you that we keep up with every inquiry we receive from our schools, and as of now, all have checked out as false. Oh yes, we have calls to check out marijuana, pep pills, and send in all samples for a laboratory test, but all failed to show any signs of drugs."

Several of the check outs proved to contain aspirin, lespedeza, tovacco and tea."

"Our police department of 19 men is three or four men short," Bruce said, "and with three present shifts, runs our night shift short if we run five cars each night. The increase in salaries, and a 40-hour shift in the near future, will put the department back in good operation. The department has come a long way since 1957, with seven men, but the building is now outgrown with the two courts holding sessions, and other organizations meeting in the courtroom."

A report of a Missouri district optimists convention in Jefferson City over the weekend was given by Zone Lt. Gov. Leo Schade.

Michigan Couple

Killed in Collision

A Flint, Mich., couple was killed in a highway collision Saturday at 10:30 p.m. on highway 67, one half mile south of Lodi in Butler county. A car, apparently traveling on the wrong side of the road, struck the Flint car head on, the state patrol reported.

Killed were Salvador Escoto, 64, and his wife Ethel, 53, when their 1963 Buick was struck by a 1966 Chevrolet pickup truck, driven by Douglas Ward 31, St. Charles.

Ward received a possible fractured left ankle and left arm, cuts and bruises and was taken to the Poplar Bluff hospital.

Three were injured Saturday at 7:45 p.m., four miles south of Gobler on route NM.

A 1955 GMC pickup truck, driven by Ernest Rocket, 71, Hornersville, did not stop at a through highway, the patrol charged, and struck a 1960 Chevrolet pickup truck, driven by John Delurye, 24, Rector, Ark., in the right side.

Delores English, 7, Rector, passenger in the Delurye truck, received injuries to her chest, and the driver received forehead cuts.

Rocket received a fractured left arm.

The injured were taken to Dunklin County Memorial hospital in Kennett.

"I want to inform you that these reinforced protective reaction strikes, which were all that were planned, have been terminated," Henkin told Pentagon newsmen.

The announced end to the raids, at least temporarily, came after North Vietnamese delegates at the Paris peace talks complained that the attacks violated the American commitment to halt all bombing of Vietnamese territory in November 1968.

Asked whether the U.S. decision to end the attacks was influenced by North Vietnam's criticism, Henkin said "I have no knowledge of that at all."

The air strikes, which followed U.S. offensive operations in Cambodia, were directed against three target areas along the Laos-North Vietnam border "from which there has been firing at U.S. reconnaissance aircraft," Henkin said.

One complex was near Barthelemy Pass between the 19th and 20th parallel of North Vietnam—so far as known the farthest north that U.S. planes have struck in North Vietnam

Train Kills Portageville Mechanic

A Frisco freight train Sunday at 2:02 p.m. near the north city limits of Portageville, struck and killed William Tommy Turnbo, 41, Portageville.

The highway patrol reported that Turnbo was lying between the tracks when the train, pulling 81 cars, passed over him.

The engineer was R. E. Nothdruff, Cape Girardeau.

Turnbo was born March 28, 1929 in Decatur county, Tenn. He was a mechanic employed at Delta Auto parts and Salvage in Portageville. He was a veteran of the Korean conflict.

Survivors include his father, John Turnbo of route one, Portageville; one brother, James Turnbo of Flint, Mich.; and two sisters, Nellie Ruth Morgan of South Bend, Ind. and Mary Ellen Turnbo of the state of California.

The body is a the DeLisle Funeral home.

since March 1968 when then President Lyndon B. Johnson ordered a partial cutback of the bombing raids.

The other locations were near Ban Karai Pass, below the 19th parallel, and another area just north of the demilitarized zone.

Henkin said the number of planes used in each mission ranged from 50 to more than 100.

He said, as other administration spokesmen have, that the raids represented no change in U.S. policy and were launched solely to protect American pilots flying reconnaissance missions over North Vietnam.

"These reconnaissance missions are essential to the safety and security of our forces in South Vietnam. This fact was made clear to the North Vietnamese at the time the bombing was halted in 1968," Henkin said.

"We have no plans now for additional reinforced reaction strikes," Henkin said, "but I want to tell you again that we are, of course, prepared as necessary to continue to protect our unarmed reconnaissance pilots."

Officials said the weekend sorties across the demilitarized zone were limited to retaliatory bombing of air defense sites that had fired on unarmed U.S. reconnaissance planes. "Protective reaction," Vice President Spiro T. Agnew called the action Sunday.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers, saying much the same thing, called the bombing "appressive fire."

Although some nearby supply dumps may have been hit in the air raids, the officials said, there has been no major change in the policy set in 1968 when U.S. bombings north of the DMZ were halted.

According to the administration, an understanding reached with Hanoi when the bombing was stopped provided that American reconnaissance flights would continue over North Vietnam without fear of ground fire.

The Vice President denied the air attacks and the Cambodia incursion were efforts to increase war pressure on the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong in an effort to force them to negotiate for peace.

Rather, Agnew asserted, the moves are designed to protect the security of American units in South Vietnam—the position set by President Nixon Thursday in disclosing the U.S. incursion into Cambodia.

The enemy was attempting to extend its supply and sanctuary areas used by its troops fighting in South Vietnam to the Gulf of Siam which, Agnew said, seriously threatens the security of American forces and the President's policy of withdrawing U.S. troops from the war zone.

"We know we can't win a land war in Southeast Asia, that's perfectly obvious," he said in explaining the limited objectives of the Cambodian action.

"We also know that Vietnamization is the proper course to pursue to dismolve American fighting men from this war while at the same time preventing the continuing incursions of the Communists into areas where the people don't want them," Agnew said.

In a later statement, the Vice President said the Cambodian drive was not an effort to destroy the enemy elements. "I don't think it is a knockout blow at all, it's simply to provide for the orderly progress of the Vietnamization program."

He made the remark on NBC's "Frank McGee Report."

The political ramifications continued to take firmer shape Sunday in the wake of the air raids and Agnew's defense of the new Nixon war policy.

Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien said the Nixon-Agnew position "means, in effect, that the American policy of disengagement has ended."

Agnew made it clear, O'Brien said, "that the administration intends to consolidate its territorial gains. This means the establishment of a new front in Cambodia in the prolonged ground war which the Vice President himself admitted we cannot win."

party official was presented the administration today when the Senate Foreign Relations Committee was called into session "to determine the members" wishes concerning a meeting with the President over the turn of Southeast Asian developments.

The committee, headed by Arkansas Democrat J. W. Fulbright, had asked for a rare face-to-face meeting with Nixon, who responded by inviting the panel to join with the House Foreign Affairs Committee in a session with him.

Fulbright had indicated an adverse committee reaction to the President's countermove, but Senate GOP Leader Hugh Scott said the Senate group should accept.

"They should not be moved by pride of place or position," he said in an interview. If he were a committee member, Scott said, "I would not quibble."

Some Senate committee members, including Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and the panel's senior GOP member, indicated they wouldn't attend such a joint meeting.

The Republican, Vermont's George D. Aiken, said "You can hardly have a conference with 50 people, especially when 36 of them are not involved in the constitutional prerogatives."

Aiken, a backer of Nixon's previous Vietnam policies, set the tone for the administration's political problems arising from the Cambodian involvement when he said the Republicans will have hard going at the polls as a result.

Scott admitted the immediate effect for the party might be bad, but "in the long run, the President is going to be vindicated."

Actually, there was no definite indication that the American public had turned completely away from Nixon over the latest war moves.

Although there were several demonstrations, particularly on college campuses, protesting the new turn of the war, a CBS poll based on telephone interviews with 1,022 persons showed a 2-1 ratio supporting the President.

Four Injured, Six Arrested as Strikers Try to Stop Trucks

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Two policemen and two pickets were injured and at least six strikers were arrested late Sunday night as 300 striking teamsters tried to keep a convoy of trucks from leaving Consolidated Freightways' yards in North St. Louis.

Twenty trucks, under police guard, started a trip to Kansas City.

Police said the out-of-work truckers bombarded trucks and police cars with rocks and bricks.

Injured were: Patrolman John Payne, head injury, hit by a brick; Sgt. Lowell Baker, chest injury, suffered in a scuffle; Paul Helger, 46, St. Louis, who said he was hit on the face and back by policemen; and Oran Conner, 42, Belleville, Ill., who said he tripped during the scuffle and suffered a head injury.

They were released after treatment at a hospital.

Six persons were booked on suspicion of general peace disturbance.

Four Arrests

Police reported Donald Pasaka, 12 Bel Air, was charged with driving while intoxicated during the weekend.

Joy Pasaka, 12 Bel Air, was charged with public intoxication.

Percy Waite, Benton, was charged with improper parking. Lee McClellan, 1723 Ford, was charged with careless driving and disorderly conduct.

The city's entire second shift of about 200 policemen were kept on overtime as a precaution when the trucks began to move.

An escort was given to the convoy as it headed north to Interstate 70. Carloads of teamsters were following. Police said the highway patrol was alerted to provide protection for the convoy which was bound for Kansas City.

The walkout by Teamsters Local 600 went into its 34th day following a narrow vote by the membership Sunday not to return to work.

After six hours of hearing terms of a proposed national contract, the membership voted 1,969 to 1,794 to stay out.

Don Lane, union president, urged the men to return. But he said the local's executive board did not agree with the $1.10 an hour offered over three years.

"I don't see a damn thing to be gained. You need to be bringing in paychecks," he told the membership.

The walkout began following expiration of the old contract on March 31. Teamsters in several other cities are also out.

Before the vote Lane urged members to abide by the decision.

"I don't want brother members fighting with brother members," he said.

Observers said the mood of the many who voted to stay out was that after losing five weeks wages they should not go back without a better contract settlement.

Lane is scheduled to appear in Federal Court at 2 p.m. today to show cause why he should not be cited for violating a restraining order prohibiting interference with truck operations.

The order was obtained by the St. Louis Motor Carriers Council, members of which have also filed a suit against the union seeking to collect damages for each day of the work stoppage.

Accidents Injure Hands and Feet

Three injured hands, three injured feet and five other injuries were treated in Missouri Delta Community hospital during the weekend.

Sam M. Hunter of Sikeston cut left palm on knife; Jerry Dean Grubbs of East Prairie cut three fingers of right hand; and Eric Douglas Lovette of Morehouse caught right hand in car door.

Meaning, Lomax of Lilbourn fell on broken glass; Inell Keller and Keenan Renolds, both of Sikeston, treated after car accidents; Linda Kay Cecil of Morehouse caught left arm in ringer of washing machine; and Carolyn Sue Williams of Sikeston fell while skating, injuring left elbow.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

"Don't work your friends in the interest of a stranger."

WHY PEOPLE STAY AWAY FROM CHURCH

The National Council of Churches has bewailed the sharp drop in attendance among its affiliated Churches. Recently, news columnist Tom Anderson pointed to what we believe to be one reason why—in a report of a survey of Protestant clergymen which he noticed in the magazine "Christians Today."

The church leaders were asked whether they believed in the physical resurrection of Jesus from the grave. An astonishing fifty-one per cent of the Methodists said they could not accept the story as a historical fact. Thirty-five per cent of the United Presbyterians could not accept it; 30 per cent of the Episcopalians could not; 33 per cent of the Baptists could not; 13 per cent of the American Lutherans and 7 per cent of the Missouri Synod Lutherans could not.

When asked if they believe the biblical account of the Virgin Birth of Jesus, sixty per cent of the Methodists said "no," and so did 44 per cent of the Episcopalians, 49 per cent of the Presbyterians, 44 per cent of the Baptists, 19 per cent of the American Lutherans and 5 per cent of the Missouri Synod Lutherans.

The worst scores of all showed up when the clergymen were asked if they believed that the Bible is the inspired word of God. Answering "No" were 82 per cent of the Methodists, 81 per cent of the Presbyterians, 57 per cent of American Lutherans.

Little wonder that many people now stay away from church. A salesman who doesn't believe in the product he is selling is a guaranteed failure and will soon go broke—if his company doesn't first. If the editors and publishers of this newspaper didn't believe in what we do and what we have to "sell," we would be out of business in short order.

There is one thing that bothers us. If any given clergyman wants to believe or disbelieve certain given things, that is his business. But nearly every church we know features the Cross of Christ on the building, and the Holy Bible is displayed upon the pulpit or altar. Let us do away with sham and hypocrisy. If a "church" holds little or no faith in the Bible, then let them do away with it and substitute something in which they have more confidence, such as a telephone directory. And if they are going to feature the Cross as their "trademark," then let them stand behind the "product"—all the way. Certainly the standards met by the merchandisers of peas and potatoes should be matched by those in the field of religion.

"Heime" Henry, the sage of Chinatown confides that just because a girl is dressed in the latest fashion—doesn't always mean she's sitting pretty.

PUT-UPON YOUTH?

An "official" line on dope is gradually emerging. The spreading use of heroin and other narcotics by young people, it's said, "is a by-product of peer group pressure, a rite of passage being initiated by bad kids who force good kids into a machismo roulette with needles instead of revolvers."

So writes Steven Levine, who is probably the youngest syndicated columnist in the "establishment" press.

But this explanation does not describe any actual condition, he says. All it does is neatly absolve parents, education, government and American culture from responsibility for the situation.

Heroin is a product of despair, says Levine. It became popular in Harlem after World War II, "after a phony renaissance, a depression, a long conflict that was meaningless to most black people, a vicious rioting, gang wars, crowding, chronic unemployment, generalized social disaster."

In a lesser sense, this is becoming the condition of white young in 1970, he claims. They are being ghettoized. Most people have rejected the essential truth that the young has exposed—that America was deeply ill—and they have elected to smother it.

"Kids are out. The press doesn't like them. The administration (don't let the 18-year-old vote now you) is out to get them. Their parents don't seem to be trying very hard to understand them any more."

So what the kids are left with, says Levine, are "bad and boring schools, increasingly hostile cops and courts, adolescent depression, parental hassles, no money, no way to get it when it's needed, and added to it all the agonizing frustration of the betrayed. In 1960 Kennedy brought us into the process of world-saving. In 1970 Nixon and his administration throw us back out."

That's some indictment, and don't worry about how accurate it is. Just pass me the needle, baby. I'm tripping out of this scene.

One wonders what young Americans would be doing themselves with if things really were rough in this country—rough, as it is spelled in Hungary or Czechoslovakia, say, where there is real despair and where the betrayal of a better world was brought about not by hostile cops by hostile tanks parading up the streets, and where no youthful columnist is invited to present his opinion of what's wrong with the system.

There have been no reports of drug use among Iron Curtain youths. Perhaps they simply can't get it, or possibly they are made of tougher stuff than our own young people.

Perhaps what is bugging so many American youths is not so much despair as it is self-indulgence and a puffed-up sense of self-importance—a case of too many kids with too little to do, with too much time on their hands and too many excuses for not using it constructively, of too many things too easily come by and too many people telling them how put upon they are.

Confidence poured out in a moment of distress and worry result in at least half the misery in the world.

NORWEGIAN STUDY ON PEDESTRIAN ACCIDENTS YIELDS INFORMATIVE DATA

The Norwegian Committee for Traffic Safety Research has released an interesting report about pedestrians who have been injured in traffic accidents. The document covers 736 pedestrians admitted to a major Norwegian hospital over the period of one year.

By inference, it found that drinking pedestrians are almost as much of a hazard as drinking drivers—to themselves, at least. Every fourth pedestrian injured in the 15-to-64 age group was found to be under the influence of alcohol.

Injuries were most serious, and the mortality rate was highest, among older pedestrians. About half of those hospitalized in the over-65 age group died or suffered subsequent grave disability.

Head injuries, the report found, are the most common type suffered by pedestrians, followed by injuries to the lower extremities.

For several years, law agencies and insurance companies in the Scandinavian countries, as well as other groups interested in safety, have been sponsoring programs to encourage pedestrians to wear reflective materials on their clothing at night.

The Norwegian report indicates this idea is paying off handsomely. Of 103 pedestrians who were hit by vehicles during darkness, 102 were not wearing any reflective materials.

In the United States, the U. S. Public Health Service has embarked on a program to encourage pedestrians to wear reflective materials on their outer garments when walking on streets and highways at night.

"A pedestrian walking at night has a common and tragic misconception," PHS says. "He assumes that because he can see automobile headlights a long way off, that the driver of the vehicle can also see him. This is simply not true."

A study on night pedestrian visibility, by Drs. Richard D. Hazlett and Merrill J. Allen of the University of Indiana School of Optometry, supports the Public Health Service contention.

A driver traveling at 60 miles an hour needs 261 feet to brake to a complete stop, the Hazlett / Allen study says. However, he can see a pedestrian dressed in dark clothing only 80 feet ahead.

The Public Health Service program is gaining advocates. Three of the nation's largest retail department store chains have, or soon will, introduce lines of junior and adult jackets that are trimmed with reflective fabric visible in headlight beams up to a third of a mile away.

U.S. Representative Clarence J. Brown from Ohio stated: "Removing the (Post Office) Department from the Cabinet is a sweeping reform and it is difficult to abandon traditional institutions, but tradition is no substitute for performance and we must act now if we are to provide the postal service America needs."

1970 WORLD CUP RALLY

It's 16,000 miles long and 16,000 feet high—probably the toughest test ever for a rally car and its crew. The route for the Daily Mirror World Cup Rally starts in London, continues for 5 days through Europe to Lisbon, Portugal, then jumps the Atlantic to Rio de Janeiro on May 9, and ends in Mexico City 20 days later.

Drivers from 22 countries set out April 19 from London's Wembley football stadium. The cars surviving the 4,500 miles through nine European countries will be shipped to Rio while the crews fly ahead to rest on Copacabana Beach. Then they will have to drive their way through Brazil, Uruguay, Argentina, Chile, Bolivia, Peru, Ecuador, Colombia, Panama, Costa Rica, Nicaragua, Honduras, El Salvador, and from Guatemala to Mexico City.

Apart from the need to maintain high speeds over frequently muddy roads, the crews will have to deal with the high altitude risks of headaches, nausea and difficulties in breathing. Most crews will be carrying emergency rations and enough spare fuel for 500 miles. Evan Green, veteran of a dozen Round Australia Trials, promises that his crew will also carry deodorants: "It may sound stupid, but after seven days in a car without a bath you become unbearable to your team-mates." Over $75,000 in prize money awaits the crews that survive this gruelling inter-continental run.

As a general thing, free advice is worthless, which may be the reason some people are so eager to give it away.

Slow Way to Do It BEFORE HE VISITED Europe recently, a certain businessman firmly believed his own country held a patent on fast action and enterprise. Now he is not so certain. He still remembers the shock he received in a suburban railway station near London.

The stationmaster lined up all of his porters along the edge of the platform. A fast train whizzed by. As it thundered away, the American glimpsed a well-dressed man leaning out of one of the windows, notebook in hand.

Was that one of the railway directors?" he asked the stationmaster. "Oh, no," came the calm rejoinder, "that was the company tailor measuring the porters for their new uniforms."

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — Six feet a "danger area." It was in this area, at approximately 21,000 feet, that the two planes collided on April 16.

Saxman's complaint was addressed to William Barton, the FAA planning officer, who bucked it down to John V. Kelley, the south division supervisor.

ECONOMY VS. SAFETY In a carefully worded, five-page memorandum, Kelly sympathized with Saxman but rejected his recommendations. The reason for not repairing the dangerous radar, Kelley made clear, was the Nixon administration's "economy drives."

"We have received numerous complaints" of faulty radar, Kelly acknowledged. He mentioned technical improvements which might be made in radar but added: "Since the radar system in question has been programmed for replacement, it is doubtful that these modifications will be made."

Kelley blamed "budget cuts, economy drives by the administration" for bringing "us to the point at which we are." But he said nothing could be done.

"Your concerns are real and understood," he wrote to Saxman. "I hope solutions can be resolved in the near future."

But nothing was done, and the delay was fatal.

Footnote: Many FAA people familiar with the tragedy are afraid to discuss it. But one who asked to remain unnamed said it was not just the radar but the whole system of procedures which was to blame for the Weldon tragedy.

HIGHER PHONE BILLS While inflation makes the dollar look more and more like Confederate money, President Nixon's economic advisers have smiled benevolently on the giant utilities which are seeking a record $2 billion in rate hikes. The increase, of course, would be tacked on to the customers' telephone and electric bills.

It is worth recalling, therefore, that Dr. Paul McCracken, the President's chief economic adviser, was a prominent company witness for the Bell System at rate hearings before he came to the White House.

The telephone companies are seeking another $600 million in rate rises in 13 states. And Mother Bell's influence with state regulatory bodies is such that, in many states, it costs more to make a long-distance call within the state than out of the state.

The electric and gas pipelines are pushing for rate increases of $500 million, and the gas distribution companies would settle for $200 million in higher rates.

Before McCracken was appointed chairman, the President's Council of Economic Advisers opposed the utility increases. In 1968, President Johnson's economic advisers blamed the utilities for failing to pass "the full benefit of improved productivity on to their customers (although) their profits have increased at an exceptional rate."

The January, 1969, economic report said prices would be more stable if the utility companies' "savings were more promptly translated into lower rates."

But the 1970 report, written under McCracken's direction, ignores the customers who use electricity, gas and telephones. Instead, the report described the work of such weak-willed regulators as the Federal Communications Commission as "generally satisfactory."

This is the same McCracken who, as the Bell System's expert witness, told the FCC in 1966:

"The zone of reasonable profits for the Bell System will need to be somewhat higher than during the last decade, and the rate of growth which we shall need suggests earnings in the upper range of this zone."

Although McCracken is now supposed to be on the phone users' side, he apparently hasn't changed his mind.

like a saint." "Yes, a St. Bernard."

Dream as Your Heart Desires "To sleep, perchance to dream..."

Aye, there's the rub for millions of insomniacs—getting to sleep in the first place. But there's good news. Current research into the phenomenon of sleep may not only solve their problem but may take the perchance out of dreaming as well.

Automated sleeping and pushbutton dreaming will be a reality when the 21st century dawns only 30 years hence, predicts Sally Ames, a consultant for a mattress manufacturer.

Sleep and relaxation will be controlled by the individual and will be "supereffective," she says.

Dreaming, which has been found to be essential for psychological health, will be stimulated by a variety of devices or techniques. It will even be possible to produce the exact kind of dream desired.

In addition, human hibernation on the order of days, weeks or even months will be prescribed for medical purposes.

None of this is idle dreaming. Research in all these areas is going on in sleep laboratories across the country. For example, medically induced sleep, similar to hibernation, is now being used in psychiatric treatment. Electronic machines are being sold to hospitals to help restless patients get to sleep.

Shakespeare will not be out of date in the next century, however. Having slept better, the fortunate citizens of the future will perform awake more refreshed and well might cry with the Bard: "Now are our stern alarms changed to merry meetings."

H.L. Hunt Says

JURIST PRAISES BOY SCOUTS

Some judges in our courts and some students in our schools have attacked the foundations of our society. However, many jurists and many young people are constructive, not destructive.

On March 31, Nevada Supreme Court Justice John Mowbray spoke to over 200 Eagle Scouts, praising their contribution to our society. Justice Mowbray clearly indicated that he values our country's traditions and institutions.

Justice Mowbray contrasted the militant minority "who are using the imperfections in the world about them as an excuse to turn their backs on society" with the scouts, who have "their two feet on the ground, with convictions in their hearts and good sense in their heads."

Justice Mowbray acknowledged that many problems exist in our country but declared that the United States "is not the decadent and outmoded country that radicals and militants picture it to be." He added that these problems "are not going to be solved by people who condemn society, who run away from it to escape into the realm of drug culture."

Instead, he stated, "it's going to require the efforts of people with faith, with keen minds, with strong hearts and with healthy bodies. . . . with the qualities that you young men have exhibited."

Justice Mowbray has taken a constructive approach to our country's problems. Unlike some judges, he clearly does not believe that we should be tolerant or approving of those who would destroy our civilization through violence.

The young men to whom he spoke, who have worked to become better citizens through scouting, are on the way to making a real contribution to our society. H.L.H.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

INSIDE COMBINATION: financial, real estate and labor infrastructure. The drive will be led by a bright U.S. Attorney, John Wall, a chap in his 30s who ran up a fine record in this district and Boston, a bloody town indeed.

It will take time. There allegedly are links to some of the 59-year-old Carlos Marcello, Southern combine got up $2 million to be used in any fashion parishes, and Carlo Gambino, a to free the Teamsters Long Island, N.Y., syndicate international president now in warlord, considered the national his fourth year at Lewisburg, combine's most powerful Pa., penitentiary.

So the theory that there is no "Mr. Big" of organized crime now belongs in a wax museum of horrors. There are two "Mr. Bigs." They have much in common. They have the usual profitable vices, but unusually vast real estate operations—and an alliance with, or control of, men planted in scores of local unions now under intense investigation.

They are the combine's labor specialists.

Also, they share the ingloriousness of the Justice Dept.'s decision to get them as quickly as possible. This won't be any easier than obtaining the Lenin Peace Prize for Richard Nixon.

But the Justice Dept.'s timetable is set. On May 18, a special anticrime strike force team will gather in the headquarters of the light-lipped (but genial) William Lynch, chief of Justice's Organized Crime and Racketeering Section. They'll be briefed for two weeks.

Then on June 1, they'll open shop in New Orleans. Their target of course will be 5-foot-1 Carlos Marcello, who has been bailed out of trouble regularly by the Supreme Court. Don Carlos Marcello is up before the high bench again (he's been there three times successfully on another matter on appeal of a conviction for throwing a punch at an FBI agent).

This strike force doesn't seem to worry brother Marcello for, as one of the nation's best informed investigators said the other day, "the power of Marcello is positively unbelievable even to us who watch and listen to these fellows day after day."

As a ransom sampling, my friend pointed to Marcello's financing one combination in the Pittsburgh-New Kensington area; and Marcello's nod of approval when the matter of a Northeaster "boss of bosses" came up at a recent commission session which named Don Carlo Gambino the alleged boss of bosses over the New York-New Jersey areas. Now, according to federal sources, few decisions are made "inside" without the advice and consent of these two so-called robber regents.

This is the opinion of what is supposed to be our own sovereign government. So the Justice Dept.'s 13th anticrime strike force will try to unravel Don Marcello's intricate

Mr. Hollman recently hauled in Don Carlo on charges of conspiracy to hijack a truck. Any charge, if valid, is good in the storm which is brewing. The point is to get Gambino to come in before he could whip up one of his perennial heat attacks. Gambino came in and was booked recently. Now the two Mr. Bigs are about to get the eyeball-to-eyeball confrontation the government has been seeking for a long time. If the Federalists win, they'll get some weighty forces off labor's back.

It won't crack La Cosa Nostra. There are others, younger and just as tough, ready to step right up. There is, for example, the unknown Aniello (O'Neil) Dellacroce all set to replace Gambino. And the 55-year-old Dellacroce, Gambino's reputed underboss, is a combination man. He knew the late Albert (the executioner of Murder, Inc.) Anastasia. And he knows Florida's Meyer Lansky and Santo Trafficante Jr.

It may seem like old times. But it isn't. The Justice Dept. is surrounding them city by city, combination by combination.

This is a new era. The young prosecutors, the young strike force leaders, who have no outstanding political IOUs, owe nothing to anyone or anything but their own consciences. Just watch.

Son Uses Pot and Pushes To Younger Brother...What's A Mother to Do

Dear Ann Landers: My son straight, Dad, burlesque in those days showed less than can now be seen at any soda fountain, or on any bus.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 15-year-old girl who has had it with my grandmother. She lives in Albuquerque. Grandmother clips your columns out of the Tribune and mails them to me. I've told her a thousand times I get your column here in the Santa Fe New Mexican so she doesn't have to bother.

Whenever you print a column about a teen-age girl who is pregnant Grandma circles it with pencil. Lately she has been sending all your columns about pot and the big H. I got one yesterday.

I am not sleeping with anybody and I have no plans to. I've tried pot a couple times and it does nothing for me. Stronger stuff is for idiots. I'll never make that scene. Tell Grandma to stop sending me your columns. She's getting on my nerves. --One Too Many

Dear Grandma: Save your stamps. I'm sure you mean well, but your approach is poison to kids -- so take the hint.

What is French kissing? Is it wrong? Who should get the necking limits -- the boy or the girl? Can a shotgun wedding succeed? Read Ann Landers' booklet, "Tenn-Age Sex -- Ten Ways To Cool It." Send 50 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

ELEPHANT ATTACKS SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) -- Police patrolling near the border with Zambia were attacked by an angry bull elephant. With the elephant in hot pursuit, the police reversed their Land Rover for 300 yards along a narrow track until stopped by a tree, then fled into the bush. From a safe distance they watched the elephant roll the vehicle over and drive his tusks through it several times. "Then he presumed the Land Rover to be dead and ambled off," said one of the policemen.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm enjoying your running battle on pornography. The reader who observed that some very bright people enjoy it was an understatement, to say the least. And this is only part of the story. Are you aware that one of this country's most distinguished Americans also enjoyed peep shows? Would you believe Oliver Wendell Holmes? You can print this without fear of being sued by his relatives because it is a matter of record. Look it up anywhere. --The Old Historian

Dear Ann Landers: "The record" says nothing about peep shows. It is a well known fact, however, that the distinguished Supreme Court Justice occupied a regular seat at the Gayety Theater in Washington, D. C. And just to keep the record meat exceeds and few equal, according to the National Broiler Council. Where the "lightness" comes in is the digestibility of chicken. It is a short-fibered meat and that is what makes it so easy to digest.

You can make Cockyleekie Soup a day ahead of when you want to serve it. What a wonderful supper to serve on a day when you need to be out shopping or have other errands that bring you home late. For this soup, the chickens are simmered with celery tops and bay leaves, then removed, and the broth strained. This is when the leeks are added to the broth and the rice and the mixture simmered further. Meanwhile the chicken is moved from the bones, the skin discarded, and the chicken cut into coarse pieces. Now that goes into the soup to heat till serving temperature and there you are with a thrifty, nourishing main dish that is a nice change from the menu and very good for your family.

COCKYLEEKIE SOUP 2 broiler-fryer chickens, whole or cut in serving pieces 3 teaspoons salt, divided 1/4 teaspoon pepper 2 celery tops 2 bay leaves 2 quarts water 12 leeks, slices, or 18 scallions white and green parts, slices (about 5 cups) 1 cup uncooked rice Put chickens in deep kettle. Add 2 teaspoons of the salt, pepper, celery tops, bay leaves and water. Bring to a boil; cover tightly. Reduce heat and simmer 1 hour, until tender. Remove chicken; strain broth. Return broth to kettle. Add remaining 1 teaspoon salt, leeks or scallions and rice. Bring to a boil. Cover and simmer 25 to 30 minutes. While mixture is simmering, remove chicken from bones. Discard skin and cut chicken into bite-sized pieces. Return to soup; heat to serving temperature.

YIELD: 6 to 8 main-dish servings.

She Did It!

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) -- A 19-year-old parts manager in a motorcycle shop went to court to compete in American Motorcycle Association races and won.

The AMA previously had barred persons such as the plaintiff from competition by refusing to grant the necessary license, but the Pierce County Superior Court ruled last week in favor of Debbi Selden, thus breaking down yet another barrier to women in sports.

"I've wanted to race professionally since I was 14," said the 5-foot-4, 118-pound Miss Selden. "I've corresponded with the AMA since 1967, but I've received replies in the nature of 'Go away little girl.' I was refused a try for a professional license in April 1969 after I turned 18."

If she does compete professionally this year, she'll probably be knitting before the start of the race, just like in her amateur days.

"I do it because it helps me relax," she said, despite the "odd looks" she gets from male cyclists busy with last-minute tune-ups.

Debbi said it wasn't the money so much as the kicks of pro racing that led her to take her case to court.

"Racing gives me a feeling I can't describe," she said. "The tough thing for me is that I reached a stage in motorcycling where I felt I was qualified to be a professional, but that unfair regulation barred me, even though my qualifications and experience were greater than some men."

Paula Tollison Miss Tollison Named Musician

NEW MADRID -- Paula Tollison, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Tollison, was named outstanding band musician Thursday at the annual spring concert. Paula's name will be engraved on the John Phillip Sousa plaque as the third annual award winner.

The award, band director Bob Danze said, is given for musicianship, attitude and cooperation.

A senior, Paula has been playing flute for six years and piccolo three years. In 1969 she was a piccolo medallist winner, and received a 1 rating for flute solo at Southeast Missouri State College, Cape Girardeau.

In addition to her concert band membership, she is pianist for the high school stage band. A piano student since fourth grade, she teaches private piano lessons weekly to 14 students.

She plans to attend Southeast Missouri state College and major in music.

Other senior band members introduced were Jana Ann Kirk, Linda Nowell, Frances Jones, Anne Hart, Mary Ann Skiles, Norma Lewis, Fredi Femmer, Mary Linda King, Eddie Harris, Patti Dyke, Ralph Horton, Joe Davis and Pat Robertson.

Green Thumb Tips

Among many dwarf marigolds, the 6-inch-tall Petites are most useful. Yellow, gold and orange-flowered varieties are listed and a bicolor, Petite Harmony, has blossoms with mahogany guard petals surrounding a gold-crested center.

Would you believe! There's a pumpkin especially selected for easy carving -- for jack o' lanterns, of course.

Named Spookie, it is a cross between the varieties Early Sugar Pie and Jack O'Lantern.

With small fruits, about 6 inches deep and the same in diameter, weighing about 6 pounds, it can be used for pies as well as carving.

Rally Carries Dogs To District Finals

The Sikeston Bulldogs made their way into the district baseball play-offs Saturday as they defeated the Lilbourn Panthers, 4-2. Donnie Miller led the basebalers as he allowed just three hits.

Miller shone throughout the contest as he grew sharper with his pitching every inning. The only trouble he had was in the second inning when the Panthers collected three hits and took advantage of two walks issued by Miller to score their two runs. After this inning a Lilbourn player did not reach second base. To end the game in high fashion, Miller struck out the last six batters and only used ten pitches in the seventh inning.

After Lilbourn had scored their two runs in the second the Bulldogs came back in the third to score one run as the Lilbourn team committed two errors that cost them a run.

Sikeston came to bat their last time with Miller leading things off with a hit, Charlie Dye and Les Schatzley followed with hits to score one run and leave Dye on second and third. Stan Sorrells then hit a long fly to center for a sacrifice. The throw was wild and the try to get Schatzley out at third resulted in a wild throw and his scoring of Sikeston's fourth and final run. Dye led the field of hitters as the only batter to get two hits with singles his last two times up and scored one of the three runs in the seventh.

Mike Dambach was the losing hurler as the allowed five hits and four runs. Only two of the runs were earned as the other two came off errors. Grant Dambach hit for the only extra-base hit of the game as he got a double in the right field corner.

Now Sikeston will travel to Cape, where they will play the winner of the sub-district held there last week. The game will be on Wednesday.

local, state and national news plus many dirty jokes, and I am in hopes that you will print this letter.

I am now a resident of Jackson, Mississippi and my friend and neighbor has a public appeal to make to all citizens of this country. This letter has nothing to do with the morality of the war in Southeast Asia, it is a humanitarian plea for our men that are prisoners of war in Southeast Asia.

JAMES LAMBERT BROCK
TOO MUCH PRECIOUS TIME WASTED
By Mrs. T. E. Collins, III
2840 Robinson Rd.
Jackson, Miss.

The following article is written not to seek your sympathy but to inform the Christian people of the world and to seek their help and prayers. The need is great; the time is now; and the words speak for themselves.

"I am the wife of an American Prisoner of War. My husband, Air Force Captain Thomas E. Collins, III, of Utica, Mississippi, has spent his fifth Christmas and his thirty-second birthday in a North Vietnamese 'hell-hole,' a windowless room, barren of any fixtures but a bed of board and a continually burning light, no heat or air, and a Judas hole for guards to peer at him. I have lived with this fact for 4 1/2 years. Although it drains me emotionally to tell this I feel I must for only the American people hold the key to release these men.

I last saw my husband, on July 9, 1965, when my son Martin, age 2, and I watched him climb in his jet fighter bound for Southeast Asia. I was expecting our second child in November and Tom was due home in December. On October 18, 1965, his aircraft received a fatal hit while on a bombing mission over North Viet Nam and Tom was heard on the radio giving orders to the co-pilot... 'We've got to bail out! Bail out! Bail out! He parachuted into North Viet Nam and into a cloak of silence. Eighteen days later our second son was born but all efforts by the International Red Cross to get a message to Tom failed. My efforts for the release of American P.O.W.'s began in January 1966. I contacted the President, the State Department, the Defense Department and all American Senators but I was quickly discouraged from making public statements or inquiries as to the health or safety of my husband, the ban of secrecy was lifted by the President some of the members of Congress began to speak out. Then, the Executive branches of the government began to make announcements relative to Prisoners of War. We wives got busy. Too much time had been wasted for these men who felt strongly enough about preserving the freedom of their lives and sacrifice their freedom. We traveled to Congress, to the Vatican, to Foreign Embassies, to the Red Cross, and to the Paris Peace Talks. We wrote to newspapers around the world and even tried to go to Hanoi. We were told by the North Vietnamese to "go home and march in the streets against the war" but nothing about the fate of our loved-ones. In late 1969 I heard rumors that Tom was a prisoner and can you imagine being delirious with joy in hearing that he might still be alive. On Christmas Eve of 1969 I received my first and only letter from Tom. Four years he had waited to write a letter consisting of six lines about health and family. Just think how much more he wanted to say after all that time. He indicated that he had never received any of the hundreds of letters I had written or the packages I had mailed. The real significance of the letter was that Hanoi had admitted that Tom was a prisoner and must account for him at the repatriation of Prisoners of War. I am one of the lucky ones for only 170 men of 1,400 have ever been allowed to write to their families.

Over 1,000 families do not know if their loved-one is alive or dead. Some have waited for five years! Prisoners who have escaped from Laos and South Viet Nam and the nine who have been released from North Viet Nam have recited tales of horror and brutality. Now, we know why they have so carefully hidden these camps and refused to allow the Red Cross or Peace Groups inside them. Conditions are primitive and the men who run the camps are barbaric. Prisoners are referred to only as criminals and twice Hanoi has threatened to try the pilots they hold as such.

A typical day in the life of a prisoner begins about 5:30 a.m. when they are awakened by a gong, followed by a 30 minute Radio Hanoi English language broadcast of propaganda piped into the cells. At mid-morning they are taken out to the washroom for 5 minutes. About 11:00 a.m., 19 hours after they were last fed, they are given a bowl of pumpkin or turnip soup. They must nap until 2:00 p.m. when they are again forced to listen to a propaganda broadcast. Between 4:00 and 6:00 p.m. they are fed their second and final meal consisting of again pumpkin or turnip soup. They are not allowed to work or exercise and there is no recreation. Prisoners say they could endure the torture and starvation but the enforced inactivity is unbearable. Can you imagine being alone with only your thoughts for five years?

Prisoners must arise at the sound of the gong, bow to guards, inform on friends, not talk to or look at other prisoners, answer all questions and submit to interrogation. Those who do not imagine being alone with only your thoughts for five years? Prisoners must arise at the sound of the gong, bow to guards, inform on friends, not talk to or look at other prisoners, answer all questions and submit to interrogation. Those who do not imagine being alone with only your thoughts for five years? Prisoners must arise at the sound of the gong, bow to guards, inform on friends, not talk to or look at other prisoners, answer all questions and submit to interrogation. Those who do not imagine being alone with only your thoughts for five years?

and then this repeated. There are reports of prisoners being placed in holes in the ground with only enough room to stand or barely lean. Perhaps the worse horror of all is solitary confinement... a room with no one but you and the days of aloneness turning into years. Many have seen no Cont. on Page 6 one but an occasional guard or interrogator.

Many have been beaten with hoses or gun butts or forced to make statements. Some are placed in cages or dragged through the streets even if badly injured. Prisoners are never allowed to write their families or to receive mail and they are never identified. All of these incidents are in direct violation of the Geneva Convention which North Viet Nam signed in 1957.

After we began to speak out a few Americans began to feel the desperate situation and public opinion and sentiments began to build. Mr. H. Ross Perot tried at Christmas 1969 to fly gifts to American prisoners.

Although his efforts to deliver the packages failed he focused world attention on the prisoner of war problem. Mr. Perot had heard our cries for help and when he met a 4 1/2 year old child who had never seen his father he vowed to do all possible to gain the release of these men. Mr. Perot has offered to do the following: 1. To feed all the hungry people in North Viet Nam. 2. To supply food and medical supplies necessary to run all American Prisoners of War camps. 3. To rebuild any hospital or school that was destroyed by American pilots. Only legal military targets have been hit in Viet Nam and these are not considered to be legal targets.

4. To give $100,000,000 in non-military aid and medical supplies in exchange for the prisoners. To date, the North Vietnamese have not rejected this offer. They are overwhelmed that one man could have this much freedom and money to make such an offer for 1,400 men.

Now, Mr. Perot wants to show the North Vietnamese that 210 million Americans do care about "just 1,400 men" and want them released. He believes that when public opinion in this country on the P.O.W. issue is apparent that the prisoners will be freed. The North Vietnamese are avid students of public opinion and responsive to it. He is asking every American to write a short letter of concern for humane treatment of prisoners of war and for their release. The American J.C.'s are backing him with their "United We Stand" campaign and in May 1970 Mr. Perot will start a truck caravan to cover every state and collect the letters from those who do care.

A simple postcard stating, Mr. Perot, Please continue your efforts for the release of American Prisoners of War from North Viet Nam, will do. Address these letters to United We Stand, P. O. Box 100,000 Jackson, Mississippi. The goal for Mississippi is 1 million letters.

Hanoi is already feeling the mounting pressure of American opinion as more names have been released and more letters received. Fourteen names were released through the Swedish Embassy and Hanoi announced that 320 men had been allowed to write their families.

Nearly all letters received previously were through individual groups rather than government exchange. Two of the groups, Women's Strike for Peace Movement and Committee of Liaison Between Families and American Prisoners Detained in North Viet Nam, are believed to be pacifist groups in sympathy with North Vietnamese. The third group, American Friends Society, Quaker, is a religious non-violent group whose efforts are humanitarian and not pacifist. They were the only group allowed into Germany during the war for the purpose of feeding starving children. The efforts of these three groups have obtained letters for 170 families.

The story is longer than what I have written here. The waiting days have turned into long years, Five years in fact. Every day I must face my two small sons now ages 4 and 6 and somehow keep alive a Daddy that lives half way around the world, a Daddy that has never seen one son and who shares a dim memory with the other son. The questions become greater as they grow older. We must share other Daddy's and hope and pray that ours will be returned to us while there is still time to grow from childhood to manhood with him. I can be a Mother to my children but I cannot be a Father.

Our government is based on "We the People" and we ask the people to please help us through letters to the following addresses:

1. H. Ross Perot
United We Stand
P. O. Box: 100,000
Jackson, Mississippi
2. His Excellency,

"The best interests of Peace can be served by according American Prisoners of War the protection of the Geneva Convention. We are concerned about their inhumane treatment."

3. A telegram (15 words for $1.00) to your Senators and Representatives in Congress.
"URGENTLY REQUEST RELEASE OF PRISONERS OF WAR. BE GIVEN HIGHEST PRIORITY THIS SESSION OF CONGRESS"

4. Pass this on to some one else.

5. Write your own Newspaper editor and the Editor, New York Times, 229 West 43rd St., New York, New York, 10036.

Cairo Youth

Charged with Sale of Drugs

CAIRO — "We have a campaign on drugs," Cairo Police Chief Roy Burke says. "We are going to eliminate this drug problem."

Burke's statement was made following the arrest Tuesday of William Glenn Means Jr., 17, 613-35th St., on the charge of selling drugs.

Means was arrested at his home. Police have confiscated about 75 amphetamine capsules, the drug that Means is charged with selling.

Amphetamines are used as stimulants in colds or hay fever; taken internally, they are mental stimulants.

While this is the first drug sale arrest made by Cairo police since Burke was named chief, he promised that more arrests will be made.

Used properly, amphetamines are used as inhalants in colds or hay fever; taken internally, they are mental stimulants.

Apparently most of the drug use involves high school kids, according to Burke. It is not known just how limited or wide spread the drug abuse problem in Cairo has become.

National studies have indicated that the use of marijuana, also known as grass or pot, and other drugs is fairly common. Some efforts have been made to legalize the use of marijuana.

"We are going to make some arrests on marijuana," Burke said.

Joe Louis, the Brown Bomber, scored 10 one-round knockouts during his pugilistic career.

St. Patrick, the patron saint of Ireland, was not born in that country. He was born in Bannavem, which may have been in England or Scotland.

George Eliot wrote only one historical novel, "Romola," in which she told a story of Italian life during the time of Savonarola.

MAN ON A TIGER ON AN ELEPHANT—The most astonishing animal performance in circus history... Germany's fantastic Gunther Gebel-Williams is a star of the super-spectacular 1970 Edition of Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus. The Greatest Show On Earth comes to the Mid-South Coliseum in Memphis for five big performances beginning Friday evening, May 8, through Sunday evening, May 10.

A new model root feeder facilitates getting plant food to roots of trees and shrubs. The maker (Ross Daniels, West Des Moines, Iowa), describes it as including the most radical change since its inception 24 years ago.

Most important improvement is the ability to refill the chamber with plant food or systemic insecticide without disassembling the unit. The cartridge chamber is larger, too, holding four pellets rather than one or two. This means you can feed more heavily when desirable and faster any time.

Other new features are a double hand grip for easier insertion into the soil; a hand knob for control of water flow, and faster solution of cartridges. A built-in, anti-siphon check valve prevents backup of solution into the water supply system.

Time-wasting disassembly of the feeder unit to replace the food cartridge has been eliminated.

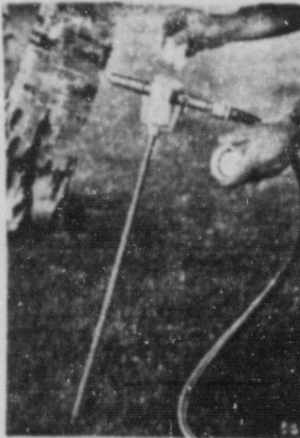

There are special cartridges for regular plant diet, for evergreens, for roses, shrubs and hedges, for iron deficiency and for trees.

Something New
The new Red Glow Marigold (from Burpee) has been awarded the All-Britain Silver Medal, described as the highest award ever given in these international trials.

Red Glow is a dwarf triplid hybrid with double flowers 2 to 2-1/2 inches across. It is red on gold, turning nearly all red in cool weather. The neat, compact plants are just under a foot tall and literally covered with blooms. The general purpose plant is fine for beds, borders and edgings.

Red Glow is a cross between a big American marigold and a little French variety. As with the mule, it is sterile and cannot reproduce itself.

Blooms may be expected five to six weeks from seed planting time.

Explanation: Because the little French marigolds have twice as many chromosomes as the Americans, the resulting triploids have their chromosomes out of balance. This makes them mules (cross between mare and jackass). The flower head cannot go to seed and it stays fresh longer on the plant and as a cut flower. None of the plant energy is lost in seed-making.

Other 1970 Burpee introductions include:

Whitemost marigold; Gold Lady, Orange Lady, Redcoat and Nugget (mixed) marigolds; Sparkles Petunia, New Mound petunias, Flaming Fire Sentinel snapdragon; Ruffled White verbenas and Lipstick zinnia.

Al Sikes to Coordinate Campaign for Danforth

JEFFERSON CITY — Al Sikes, national vice president of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce and immediate past president of the Missouri Junior Chamber of Commerce, has been named by Attorney General John C. Danforth to coordinate his campaign to gain the Republican nomination for United States Senator from Missouri.

Sikes, 29, is a descendant of the family which founded Sikeston, and his father, Kendall Sikes has served as the mayor of Sikeston. One of Missouri's outstanding young men, Sikes is a graduate of Westminster College at Fulton and the University of Missouri school of Law in Columbia. Sikes began his law practice in Springfield in 1964, where he was associated with the law firm of Allen, Woolsey and Fisher until he built the Sikeston swimming pool by his residence, 110 North Kingshighway and it has operated each summer since.

Cab Calloway, the "King of HI-De-Ho," is coming to Sikeston with his famous band. Conley Purcell and Robert Sorrells of the Junior Chamber of Commerce have negotiated to obtain the hot negro orchestra for a dance at the armory on June 15.

If You Were the Judge

Treatment But No Jail Cell for Drunk

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Chester operated on the theory that the safest way to avoid a slip 'twist the cup and the lip was to drink straight from the bottle. A chronic alcoholic, he also found it a great time saver. When he wandered into a fancy club, however, the 'maître d' insisted that he drink from a glass like everybody else. Unfortunately, having been imbibing for some time prior thereto, there was no reasoning with Chester.

The result? Chester was arrested and charged with the crime of public intoxication.

"He was so bombed," the judge was told, "he couldn't lie on the ground without holding on."

"All that may be so," he responded Chester's legal beagle, "but he had no intention of breaking the law. Nor did he intend to get drunk in public. The fact is, Chester's an alcoholic and you can't send a man to jail for that."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE? would you jug guzzling Chester for getting potted in public?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that chronic alcoholism is considered a disease; that to jail someone for having a disease would be cruel and inhuman punishment and in violation of the eighth amendment of the United States Constitution. However, noted the judge, this is not to say that an alcoholic may not be detained for treatment or rehabilitation.

The Prayer from The Upper Room

They word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path.
(Psalm 119:105)

PRAYER: O God, save us from having either a dusty Bible or an over-clean one. We pray for the power of will to open it and read, that it may speak to us. Guide us in knowledge and understanding that our lives may speak to others of Thy saving love. In the name of Jesus, who taught us to pray, "Our Father who art in Heaven. . . Amen."

Hardin Asks for Release of More REA Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Clifford M. Hardin has asked White House budget officials to release $20 million in additional funds to help finance more Rural Electrification Administration loans this fiscal year.

Department officials confirmed Tuesday that Hardin had asked the Budget Bureau to release the reserve money, which had been added by Congress to REA appropriations for fiscal 1970, the year ending June 30.

A spokesman said no reply had been received from budget planners on Hardin's request. The funds, if not spent, would be carried over to the next fiscal year beginning July 1. The REA budget request for 1971 is $346 million, the same as Jackson, Miss., spent the for the current fiscal year. If the Budget Bureau releases former's father, Buck Tickle, the $30 million the additional money will help ease the on the sick list this week. pressure but will not begin to wipe out a huge backlog of requests for REA loans. EDUCATION, MENTAL HEALTH LEADERS APPEAL FOR MORE STATE FUNDS

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. — Dr. John C. Weaver, president of the University of Missouri, has described himself as "a deeply worried university president with an enormous responsibility and desperately inadequate resources with which to match it."

Dr. George A. Ulett, director of the Missouri Division of Mental Health, has said, "400,000 Missourians who will need some form of mental health care during the next year will not get it."

These two men and their appeals are part of the problem facing Missouri's legislature as it tackles the sticky problem of setting up the state's budget for the 1970-71 fiscal year which begins July 1.

Senate Appropriations Committee chairman T. J. McNeal (D-St. Louis) has said his committee has been asked to approve $300 million in funds the state does not have.

"A mission impossible," he said. And, House Appropriations Committee chairman E. J. (Lucky) Cantrell has said: "Where, I wonder, can we go from here?"

It is hard to appraise all these comments, but it is impossible to ignore them.

Testifying before the House and Senate Appropriations committees, Weaver said the University must receive $12 million in increased state appropriations in order to maintain a "stand still, no improvement, water treading, irreducible minimum" level of operation for the next fiscal year. Weaver appeared before both legislative committees in support of the University's request for $103,490,388 in state funds for 1970-71 fiscal year.

Stanley R. Fike

Fike Will Discuss U.S. Involvement

NEW MADRID — United States involvement in Cambodia, Laos and Vietnam will be included in a speech "The Washington Scene" by Stanley R. Fike Wednesday at the third annual Chamber of Commerce banquet, Chamber President Larry H. Rost announced.

Fike has been administrative assistant of U. S. Sen. Stuart Symington since 1953. Chamber members report advance ticket sales for the 7 p.m. banquet indicate a capacity crowd. Tickets will be available at the door.

In his executive budget, Gov. Hearnes slashed the figure to $80.7 million and Weaver said an increase of $12 million over the Governor's recommendation would mean the difference "between holding our own and genuine retrenchment."

At one point during the hearings, Weaver said he often stayed awake at night thinking about the welfare of the University's students: "I do understand the state's fiscal crisis. I am not living in a fantasy land of being unrealistic about the facts of fiscal life in Missouri. But I would argue that the welfare of nearly 50,000 young people in the University is a fact of life too — a fact of life this state also has to be realistic about."

At the $80.7 million figure the Governor has recommended, Weaver says the University

OBITUARIES

RUTH WALLACE

NEW MADRID — Mrs. Ruth Wallace, 83, lifetime New Madrid resident, died at 8 p.m. Sunday at the Missouri Delta Community hospital in Sikeston, where she had been a patient since April 24.

She was born Sept. 2, 1886 in New Madrid. She was co-manager of the Claire Hotel from 1945 until she retired in 1955.

Survivors include one brother, Wash Howard of Parma; and one sister, Tude Moore of New Madrid.

Recitation of the Rosary will be at 7 p.m. tonight at Richards Funeral home.

Services will be at 10 a.m. Tuesday at the Immaculate Conception church with the Rev. Fr. Wallace Ellinger officiating.

Burial will be in Everygreen cemetery.

MELVIN McCLARD

DEXTER — Melvin "Mac" McClard, 68, died in the Doctors Hospital in Poplar Bluff Thursday. He was the owner of McClard's Automobile Tune-Up.

He was born near Dexter Nov. 24, 1901. On Feb. 6, 1921, he was married to Eva Burchfield at Dexter. She preceded him in death on Jan. 13, 1967. McClard was a member of the First Christian church and the Masonic lodge.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. Anita Garner of Dexter; one granddaughter; one brother, William C. McClard of Dexter; and four sisters, Mrs. Celia Reed, Mrs. Amy Garner, Mrs. Elsie Dowdy and Mrs. Ruby Gunter, all of Dexter.

Masonic services were at 8:30 p.m. Saturday in the Rainey Chapel. Services were Sunday at 2:30 p.m. in the Chapel, with the Rev. Stanley Lamb officiating.

Burial was in the Dexter cemetery.

would be faced with such "desperate" alternatives as no salary or wage increases, reductions in purchases of books, equipment or other essentials below the present level, enrollment limitation, fee increases and reductions in health care services.

Weaver warns that, with no capital improvements, the School of Veterinary Medicine might lose its accreditation. The School has been on probation for several years because of inadequate physical facilities.

Without guaranteed accreditation, graduates of the School would be refused a license to practice in all states of the country, including Missouri. No capital improvement funds for the School were in the Governor's budget.

Enrollment has already been frozen on the University's St.

RUTH LEE

PORTAGEVILLE — Mrs. Ruth Lee died at 6 p.m. Sunday at Methodist hospital in Memphis where she had been a patient three weeks.

The body is at DeLise Funeral home.

JOHN NORTHERN

Services for John William Northern, 32, of Berkeley, formerly of Sikeston, who died Friday night in a St. Louis hospital, will be Tuesday at 2 p.m. in the Nunnelee Funeral Chapel, with the Rev. James Tremble, St. Louis, officiating.

Burial will be in Oak Grove cemetery in Charleston.

HOMER YORK

Homer C. York, 90, 824 Linn, retired grocer of Sikeston, died Sunday at 9 a.m. in the Host House, Charleston.

He was born in Illinois, Dec. 2, 1892.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Nina Dunn York; and three nieces, Mrs. Harold Springs, and Mrs. Grace Hughes, both of Sikeston, and Mrs. William Williamson, St. Louis.

Services will be Tuesday at 10 a.m. in the Welsh Funeral Chapel with the Rev. James Hackney, officiating.

Burial will be in Mt. Hope cemetery in Belleville.

Louis campus. Weaver said this was a last resort and he hopes the University will not have to limit enrollment on the other three campuses. "It would be the last resort," he said. "But, we can no longer recruit students."

The University has its problems and the legislative appropriations committees are looking for answers. They also are deeply concerned about requests from the Division of Mental Health.

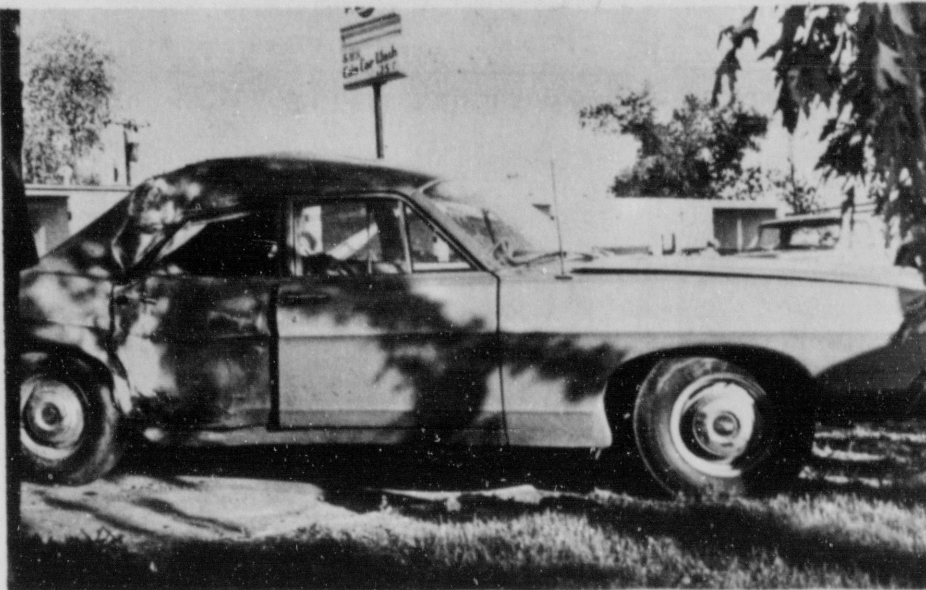

Director Ulett has told the legislative committees that only "about one-tenth of the job that needs to be done in Missouri today" is actually looked after. With Hearnes' "hold the line" budget, many mental health programs will suffer, Ulett warns.

The Division of Mental Health requested $89.9 million from the state's general revenue fund for the coming fiscal year. Hearnes cut the request to $71.2 million.

"With regard to the overall operating budget of our division, I can say it is a tight one that is bound to mean a cutback in programs and services to our patients."

"It will be impossible to maintain our current level of service," Ulett has told the appropriations committee members.

As the weeks go by, other state officials will be pleading

THREE WERE INJURED in the 1968 Ford Sedan at 7:30 a.m. Saturday at the corner of Ruth and South West streets when it collided with a Dodge pickup truck. The driver, Roy Lee Rhyne of 710 Montgomery, and two passengers, Allen Rhyne 13, and Miles Harvey Huse, 13, suffered cuts and bruises and were admitted to the Missouri Delta Community hospital Saturday. They are reported to be in fair condition today.

for more funds from the legislators. Some will get more than the Governor's budget has recommended but most will get less than they want.

The legislators face a big problem of stretching the money out to be used where it will do the most good for the most number of Missouri citizens. If they can do it right they'll be worth their $8,400 a year salary, and maybe even their retirement benefits. But that's another story.

Three Criminal Cases on Docket

CAP GIRARDEAU — Three criminal cases on the docket for the spring term of Federal District Court for the Eastern District of Missouri, Southern Division, which opens here Monday.

Court will convene at 9:30 Monday morning, in the courtroom of the Federal Building, Broadway and Fountain. Judge Roy W. Harper will be on the bench.

Neutralization ceremonies, generally held in the afternoon on the opening day of court, will not be held this term until the afternoon of Monday, May 11.

Three southeast Missouri residents are to become citizens of the United States at that time.

Two of those facing criminal charges will appear for arraignment Monday. Both are accused of violation of the Universal Military Training and Service Act by failure to comply with orders of their local draft boards.

IN THE MIDDLE

With Dan Whittle

Members of the silent majority in Scott County and Missouri spoke out against the state income tax proposal and apparently have served notice on public officials they are more than willing to voice their opinion again. In talking with citizens around the county it is apparent they are no longer willing to accept government policy without question. School officials in the Sikeston R-6 district realized there is strong anti-tax levy increase sentiment and postponed the district's levy vote. By calling off the levy year's grand jury. It is well and good we can determine our problems. It is not well and good when we fail to improve the situation.

The above statement was rendered by well-known real estate dealer R. D. Clayton in the corridors of the courthouse last Monday afternoon. After collaring this newsman about the courthouse matter, Mr. Clayton suggested steps be taken by the news media to get conditions improved in the Scott county jail. He was emphatic in his statements and certainly it is apparent some emphatic action needs to be taken to improve the county's retention center.

This was spelled out by last year's grand jury. It is well and good we can determine our problems. It is not well and good when we fail to improve the situation.

BACK TO THE COURTHOUSE

There have been a couple of county politicians from Sikeston who seem to think the matter of moving the courthouse could have been brought up at a better time — such as a non-election year. Mike Shain of KSIM radio came up with an idea where people working in the courthouse who live in Sikeston could move the structure down south in an economical manner. That is they could tote one brick at a time back to Sikeston each working day.
